

Astro-mythology: Medusa and Artemis

This post is a formal paper addressing some of the astro-mythology I posted before on this blog in the lost zodiac constellations. This newly published paper addresses the lost location of Medusa and Artemis in the stars and gives answers to why Medusa is on the pediment of the Artemis temple in Corfu. It also shows the origins of the kneeler constellation under different names as Lamashtu and Humbaba, solidifying the hypothesis of the author that all gods and mythology has its origins in astronomy.
